

Report: Lecture on Reading Culture and Today's Youth.

Event: Lecture on Reading Culture and Today's Youth.

Date: 8th January, 2025.

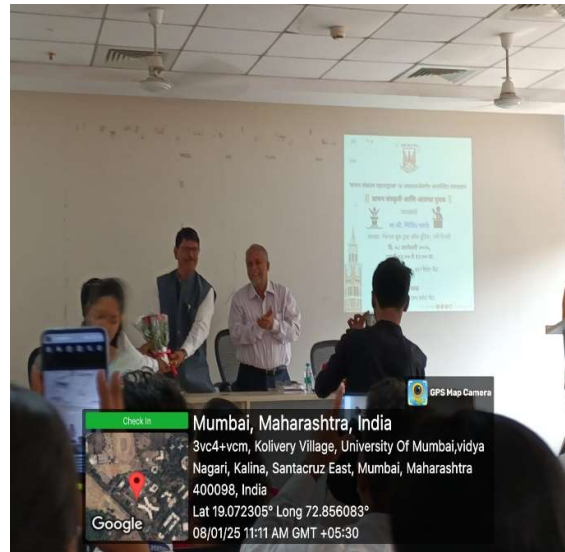

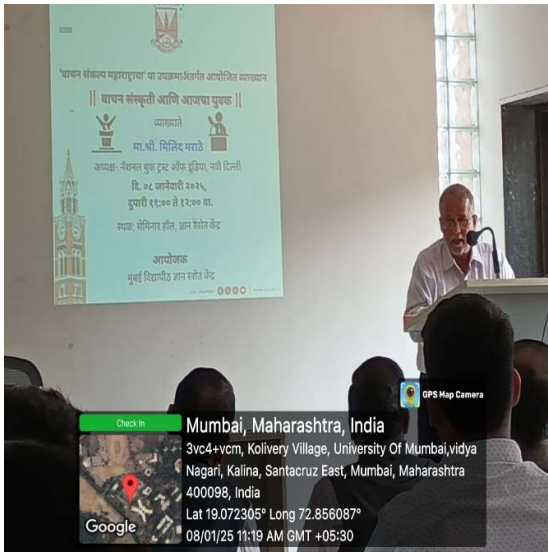

Objectives: To explore the impact of reading culture on today's youth and its role in shaping their mindset, skills, and societal engagement.

Highlight: The NSS Unit has participated in insightful lecture on "Reading Culture and Today's Youth." The session aimed to highlight the importance of reading in the modern era and its influence on the personal and academic growth of students. Experts discussed how reading broadens perspectives, enhances critical thinking, and fosters creativity. The lecture also addressed the decline in reading habits among youth and the impact of digital media on their engagement with books. Students were encouraged to develop a reading habit as a tool for self-improvement and knowledge acquisition. Real-life examples were shared, showcasing successful individuals who attributed their success to consistent reading. The event emphasized the need for a balanced approach, combining digital consumption with traditional reading practices. Participants were motivated to explore a variety of genres, including literature, history, and self-help, to diversify their knowledge. Overall, the lecture proved to be an engaging and informative session that sparked curiosity among the youth to embrace reading as a lifelong habit.
