REC

To create an image of aggressiveness and strategic opportunism, empire building and amass vast economic powers of the company.

- Accounting:

The accounting depends upon the nature of transaction i.e. whether amalgamation is in nature of merger or it is in nature of the purchase. There are two methods of accounting one is pooling of interest method and another is termed as the purchase method of accounting.

In the pooling of interest method of accounting all the assets and liabilities of the merging company gets aggregated in one balance sheet. Only the share capital remains the distinct part depending upon the share exchange ratio decided in the negotiations. The difference between the assets and liabilities is adjusted in the reserves and surplus of the company.

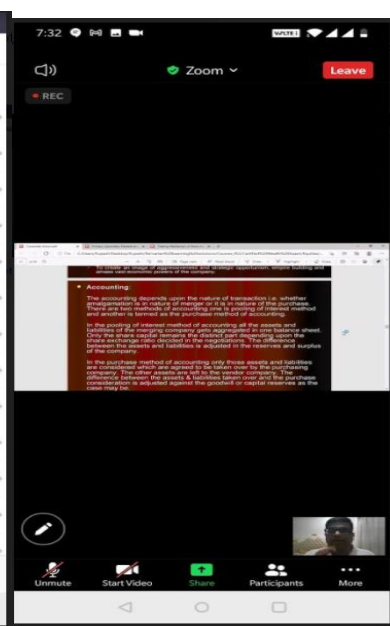

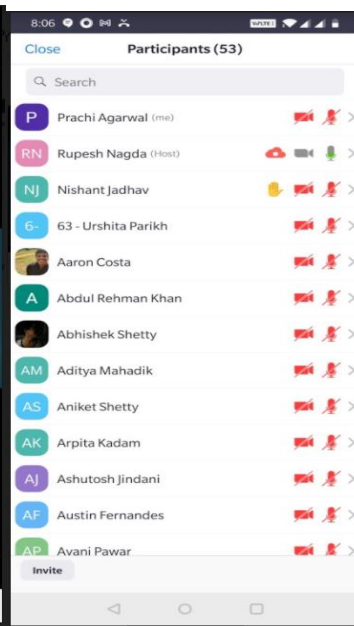

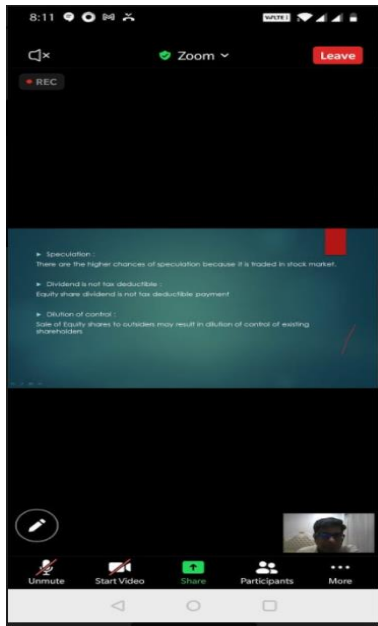

In the purchase method of accounting only those assets and liabilities are considered which are agreed to be taken over by the purchasing company. The other assets are left to the vendor company. The difference between the assets & liabilities taken over and the purchase consideration is adjusted against the goodwill or capital reserves as the case may be.
